

high-consequence

(a) Success on the tasks that matter

(b) Compute is reallocated, not created

(c) Lower cost-weighted loss

